> More about Microtech di Boin Vittorio

Microtech is a metalworking company that produces precision parts.

We provide complete support starting from the elaboration of the project or in the realization of the component according to drawing or sample, continuing with the procurement of raw materials, execution, and any treatments or rectification.

Thanks to the network management of all operating systems, each step is recorded and interconnected between the parts that allow the optimization of resources and an always updated vision in compliance with delivery times.

The continuous search for improvement and the strong attention to detail have led us to redesign the production process by setting a greater control of the processes carried out through codified procedures aimed at improving the verification and inspection of the finished product.

Product quality and customer-focused management optimization are the characteristics on which the company is founded.
