> More about GRUPPO INGEGNERIA TORINO

High level professional approach, skills and multidisciplinary experience in the engineering field

Gruppo Ingegneria Torino is a company founded in Turin, but now consolidated throughout the country, with the aim of bringing together expertise and multidisciplinary experience to offer specialized design and consulting services in various technical areas all integrated with each other.

The Group aims to expand its field of operations in Italy and abroad, using innovative knowledge and technologies suitable for solving specific problems in all sectors of interest. Close relationships with leading companies in the sector allow us to propose operations and construction sites in Italy and in various foreign countries.

We believe in a future horizon where the synergy between ideas, people, organizations and technical-scientific competences can become an essential tool to build a modern and evolving society.
