> More about Leap Factory

Leap Factory develops Made in Italy systems for customised housing that are more efficient, safe and inviting. Designed for a more enlightened world, the aim is to create zero-impact living. In terms of housing, hotels or one's own house, it's difficult to imagine the building sector having a positive impact without reconsidering everything from the ground up. Technical evolution permits the building of homes and hotels using customised modular elements that are produced off-site with high precision processes before then being assembled at the site. This model reduces construction time and the environmental footprint by a factor of ten without sacrificing the final quality of the building. In just a few weeks' time, builders and architects who collaborate with Leap can create contemporary buildings to meet a variety of demands that are able to accommodate people's daily needs in surroundings marked by great comfort, thus integrating individual and collective well-being.
