> More about PAVESIO MARIO

Founded in 1949, PAVESIO MARIO S.r.l. has always worked in synergy with its customers and it is specialized in the production of turned parts.

The company can rely on technology, quality and service thanks to the experience, know-how and skills developed in over seventy years of working as a partner of small/large national and multinationals companies, with production locations in Europe, North and South America, North Africa and Asia.

The long technical experience acquired in the various processes, combined with the use of innovative materials, allows the company to supply the highest quality products used in the most different applications for the automotive sector, such as fuel injectors and high pressure pumps, fuel filters, robotised transmissions and high pressure pipes.

The production is planned on the basis of the orders received, according to drawings and specifications provided by customer, who can constantly make use of the skills and advice of the Technical Office for the development of solutions that take into account the functional, technological, and economic needs of each product.
