> More about ntek

NTEK was founded as a start-up in 2013 with the aim to offer innovative solutions for the measurement and control of vibrations and noise. In a few years, the company has evolved by designing, developing and producing solutions that combine simplicity, ease of use and portability with the quality of products.

In 2017 NTEK became a small-medium sized company and was one of the main Italian players with an international vocation in the field of acoustics and vibrations.

NTEK is specialized in products and services for the measurement and control of noise and vibration derived from it, in all the fields of acoustics application. The company has invested heavily in innovation and production processes with self-control procedures certified by an independent primary society.

NTEK mainly operates in the aerospace, automotive, smart manufacturing, and health & wellness fields.
