

EDILCLIMA SRL

> More about EDILCLIMA SRL

Edilclima was established in 1977 in Borgomanero (NO) ITALY as an HVAC design company and from the following year, it became the first company to establish a Software Department to produce calculation software.

Edilclima, in over 40 years of activity, has acquired over 16.000 customers throughout Italy. Edilclima has become one of the leading software houses and a valuable reference point for building designers, helping them to realize their design intentions using an approach that combines innovation, concreteness and sustainability.

Edilclima is proud to be able to rely on a close synergy between its two core areas (software and engineering) and thanks to the knowledges acquired in over 40 years of activity, it provides a complete range of software for modern integrated design to the professionals.

Thanks to our passion for innovation and our constant commitment to research and development, Edilclima's services and solutions have always oriented the market evolution and offered an indispensable support to professionals who believe in sustainable energy design.
