> More about LUME

LUME is an independent production company founded in late 2014 and based in Italy.

It supports the constant executive production activity for foreign clients on film and advertising sets, with the development of some film projects for the cinema always looking for a cultural and artistic interest that naturally privileges topics and development of European co-productions and international point of view.

ADRIANO BASSI has more than 25 years of experience in the film industry, where he started as a location manager in Turin, later becoming production manager and line producer. He has worked with nationally and internationally renowned directors such as Paolo Sorrentino, Peter Greenaway, Michael Apted, David Guggenheim and many others. He created LUME as a reference point for prestigious foreign production and to convey new European co-productions.

LARA CALLIGARO During her studies in political philosophy, she worked with NGOs in Italy, Swaziland, Afghanistan and produced documentaries in Ethiopia, Kosovo, Bosnia. She collaborated with
