

OLMI S.R.L.

> More about OLMI S.R.L.

Since 1980, we have been passionately dedicated to the design and production of hydraulic hinges and closing systems, placing specific focus on precision mechanical machining using a machining process converted from the extraction of turnings and milling. But we didn't stop there – and we've never stopped learning. For this reason, over the years we have consolidated our know-how and extended production by introducing pneumatic actuators for sliding doors, commercial refrigerators and shower enclosures.

Meticulous attention to detail and precision production processes ensure quality and resistance in our products that last over time. All this without neglecting the design's aesthetic taste – extremely refined, but at the same time minimalist, almost completely invisible, so as to put the surrounding environment absolutely in the limelight.
