> More about ABITARE LEGNO SRL

In the North West area of Italy, Abitare Legno is one of the leading companies playing in the marketplace of wooden houses. A dynamic and modern partner with broad vision of the future of constructions.

Design, energetic efficiency, sustainability, living comfort. Just 4 words to better describe the essence of buildings we use to realize for our Clients. Abitare Legno definitely matches the know-how in wooden technologies and energy saving with the style of Italian building culture, to create tailor-made houses and structures for living, working, and guesting. From the peaks of the Alps, up to the coasts of Mediterranean Sea: everywhere we work to commute people's dreaming and their project into a cool place to live better.

Wooden houses produced in Abitare's industrial plant in Torino perfectly combine the architectural flexibility with a thermal envelope designed to maximize the energy saving of the whole building, and the optimization of thermal systems, in order to grant very low consumption during the life of the building itself, and a comfortable and healthy quality of life to people living in.

The building technologies based on wood for each structural element and on dry assembly also grant a high level of environmental sustainability, by encouraging a circular production chain that does not impoverish productive resources.
